Description

A nickel plated set of three Beakers in a travel case.

The lipped beakers are by an unknown maker with no marks to the cups but a large number of manufacturers produced similar sets in the early to mid 20th century.

They have a gilt wash to the interior to give a purer taste whilst drinking. The case is made of pigskin leather and has two popper buttons to close it. There is some staining and marks to the case but nothing that is unexpected. Early to mid 20th century.
