Description

An Ebony folding mirror with a bevelled edge looking glass.

This form of campaign mirror was made in a number of different sizes and by various companies over quite a long period of time. Typically, they are mahogany with decorative stringing set to the edge of the glass. The mirror can be folded back on itself so that the protective board forms a foot or hung from its brass ring.

This mirror stands out for being made of ebony and the silver, entwined A and E initials are also an unusual addition. Late 19th Century.

Closed size is given.
