Description

A grained leather Shoulder Bag with leather lining.

The main compartment is locked by slide catch with a small, hinged handle to pull it open once unlocked. The interior has a pocket to the back and to the front. There is an additional pocket to the front of the bag, underneath the flap . The shoulder strap is adjustable and wraps right around the bag for added strength. We have had a very similar bag to this but it was made of pigskin, was lined in blue leather and had a ducal coronet. A good quality, useable bag. Circa 1900.
